NewsShareTweetTim Martin, founder and chairman of the chain, said all spoons pubs across the country - more than 700 in total - will take part in an initiative that offers people 50 per cent off food and soft drinks up to £10 a head. Tim Martin says Spoons will be 'cheaper than Tesco' under the government's 'Eat Out to Help Out' scheme. Credit: PATi scheme runs from Monday to Wednesday from 3. This means that in most Wetherspoons pubs (prices vary in some branches) a traditional breakfast will cost £2.24 (this includes free-range eggs, bacon rasher, Lincolnshire sausage, hash brown, baked beans and coffee), coffee or tea (with free filling) will cost 65p, a classic burger with soft drink will cost £2.50 and children's food will cost £2.08. Martin said: Thanks to the government scheme, an individual is £2.93 better off eating and drinking at Wetherspoons than buying a similar range of products at Tesco. Over a 13-day period, customers would save £38.09. As Tesco customers will appreciate, every little one helps. Breakfast Wetherspoons is now only £2.24. Credit: PRICES in some pubs in the city centre are higher and the comparison with Tesla does not work in these cases. However, the vast majority of our pubs will offer a variety of drinks at unbeatable prices. Wetherspoons is one of many big chains to sign up with the system, along with the like of Nando's, Burger King, Wagamama and McDonald's. On the other hand, the discount means you'll be able to enjoy a Big Mac for £1.60, a box of 20 McNuggets for £3, a Happy Meal for £1.30, a medium milkshake for £1 and a McFlurry for 50p. But while a lot of ridiculously cheap fast-food awaits, courtesy of the UK government, the very same government launched a plan to combat obesity earlier this week. It comes after Public Health England research showed that overweight or obese people are at greater risk of serious illness or death after contracting Covid-19. Losing weight is hard, but with some small changes we can all feel better and healthier. If we all do our part, we can reduce our health risks and protect ourselves from coronavirus - as well as with pressure from the NHS. Increased cycling is also expected to help minimise the use of public transport during pandemics, reducing the likelihood of the virus spreading among commuters. Prime Minister Boris Johnson said cycling had a huge role to play in addressing health and environmental challenges. He said: To build a healthier and more active nation, we need the right to training and support in place to give people the confidence to travel on two wheels. That's why now is the time to sort and continue our biggest and boldest plans to promote active travel – so that everyone can feel the transformative benefits of cycling. Here's everything you need to know about the breakfast menu at WetherspoonsCredit: Darren Fletcher – The Sun What time does Wetherspoons breakfast start and end? JD Wetherspoons has breakfast every day. Normally it runs from opening hours at 8:00 to 11:30. Opening hours vary from pub to pub, but the earliest is usually 8am. The Sun looked at several local pubs and found that most opened every day at 8am, but some had later 9am. Some pubs will have slightly different opening hours on Sundays, but they may not and many choose not to. Of the few we looked at, we found one pub that didn't open until 10am on a Sunday and one that wasn't open at all. There was also one that had later opening hours on Saturday. And, of course, many pubs have changed their timing due to the coronavirus. Since there are so many varieties, you should check specific times at the local before heading out - using the pub search tool. On Sundays, Wetherspoons offers all-day brunch until 11pm in some pubs. This means you can get breakfast later - albeit with less choice on offer. Again - check your local online to make sure it is up and running on Sundays. What's on the Wetherspoons breakfast menu The complete menu for each pub can be found on the JD Wetherspoons website.
